

Framing your subject

Typically we think of a frame as what goes around art after it has been put behind glass. In this project you will be putting a frame around your subject, but it will be within the image itself. Some of the challenges with this are lighting and DOF. Feel free to experiment, but often having a large DOF works best. The frame can be created by peering through a hole, a physical item around the subject, or even from a shadow.
